DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 1-8 are objected to because of the following informalities:

Claim 1, line 5, delete "the front portion" and insert —a front portion—.

Claim 1, line 6, delete "the rear portion" and insert --a rear portion--.

Claim 1, line 10, insert --means-- after "motor".

Claims 2-8 are also objected to for being dependent on an objected base claim.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sze (6,740,010) in view of Mendel et al. (4,863,157), Pyle (US 2003/0045402), Jensen (3,473,649) and Forcillo (6,612,970).

2. As to claims 1-7, Sze discloses a stationary rehabilitation exercise device comprising a frame (12), handle bars (34) connected to the front portion of the frame, a horizontally slidable seat (26) connected to the rear portion of the frame, left and right pedals (18) and an electric motor means (36) connected to the frame and said pedals to turn said pedals (see Fig. 2 & Col. 5, lines 46-50). Sze does not disclose that the rehabilitation exercise device is in the form of a tricycle having a front axle with a wheel, a rear axle with two wheels, pedals that have brackets and handlebars that are adjustable. Mendel discloses a rehabilitation exercise device in the form of a tricycle having a front axle with a wheel and a rear axle with two wheels (see Fig. 1), Pyle discloses a stationary rehabilitation cycling exercise device in the form of an automobile (see Fig. 1 & Page 1, Paragraph 0016) that uncludes a programmable motor to set the speed and time of operation of the motor (see Page 3, Paragraph 0027), Jensen discloses a stationary cycling exercise device in the form of a horse (see Fig. 1) while Forcillo discloses a stationary cycling device having vertically and horizontally slidable handle bars (3) and pedals with brackets (38) (see Fig. 1). At the time of the invention, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to 1) make Sze's stationary device into any of an array of forms such as a tricycle since the practice of making exercise devices into various forms to entertain the user is well known in the exercise art, 2) make Sze's handle bars vertically and horizontally slidable so that users of all shapes and sizes can comfortably grip the handlebars during exercise and 3) add brackets to Sze's pedals to assist the user in keeping his/her feet on the pedals during exercise.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sze (6,740,010) in view of Mendel et al. (4,863,157), Pyle (US 2003/0045402), Jensen (3,473,649) and Forcillo (6,612,970) and in further view of Piaget (5,833,584).

3. As to claim 8, Sze, Mendel et al., Pyle, Jensen and Forcillo disclose a modified exercise device as described above. Sze does not disclose a tray attached to the front portion of the frame. Piaget discloses an exercise device that includes a tray (107) at been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to add a tray to the front of Sze's the front portion of the frame of the device. At the time of the invention, it would have frame to hold various objects that an exerciser might have on hand such as reading material or a drink.
